DYNAMITE FOR MAYOR GAYNOR

CLOSE CALL FOR MAYOR OF NEW YORK—FUSE GOING OUT SAVES EXPLOSION.

New York, Aug. 21.—A deadly charge of dynamite—three whole ten-inch sticks and two halves, with a fuse and detonator—was discovered this afternoon near Mayor Gaynor's office windows in the city hall. The Bureau of Combustibles found that the explosive was 40 per cent dynamite, the regulation blasting proportion, and the amount found would, if it exploded, have wrecked the city hall.

The Mayor was in his office when the dynamite was discovered by a citizen passing through City Hall Park. Mr. Gaynor evinced little interest when told of the explosives proximity and remained apparently undisturbed at his desk while police officers hurriedly drew a cordon about the dynamite to keep back an excited crowd.

Mr. Gaynor frequently receives threatening letters, but tonight he would make no statement regarding the possible connection between any previous threat by mail and the dynamite of today.

It was just three years ago this month that he was shot in the neck by a so-called crank and so badly wounded that for several days it was feared he would die.

The dynamite found today lay on a basement door in a concrete moat or areaway within sixty feet of the Mayor's window. The explosive was arranged in a lattice formation with the two small pieces on top. A partly burned four-inch fuse, made of gunpowder, tightly rolled in a paper cylinder, led to a detonating cap on one of the half sticks.

Close to the explosive was a piece of Chinese punk and several partly burned matches. The dynamite and fuse were wrapped in a piece of heavy cambric, secured by red and blue twine. The cloth was blue with red and white figures and resembled the fillets worn by Italian women of the working class.

Experts of the Bureau of Combustibles state that the only thing which prevented a disastrous explosion was the presence of a strip of wool bound so tightly about the base of the fuse that a spark could not reach the detonator. An edge of one dynamite stick was slightly scorched.

"Ned" Green is 45.

New York, Aug. 22.—E. H. R. Green only son of Mrs. Hetty Green and prospective heir to the bulk of the enormous fortune possessed by his mother, reached his forty-fifth birthday anniversary today. Despite the fact that some day in all probability he will be one of the wealthiest men of America, Mr. Green is a modest and unassuming man who works hard and indulges in few hobbies. The past few years he has made his home in this city, looking after some of the great financial interests of his mother though he continues to spend a part of each year in Texas, where he is interested in railroads and other enterprises. Mr. Green is unmarried.

PENROSE WOULD SEND TROOPS TO MEXICO

Washington, Aug. 21.—Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania today introduced a resolution requiring the president to take the necessary steps to place United States troops in Mexico to protect American lives and property; such step to be decreed by the senate, as in no way an unfriendly act to Mexico.

Senator Penrose introduced also an amendment to the deficiency bill for an appropriation of $25,000,000 to be expended as the president might direct for the protection of the lives of Americans in Mexico.

He made no effort to secure immediate action upon his resolutions.

"The administration has asked for $100,000 to take Americans out of Mexico," said Penrose. "I think they have a right to be in Mexico. We have no right to attempt to break up their homes and occupations. I would appropriate this $25,000,000 to keep them where they are and protect them."

Senator Nelson declared that it seemed unwise at this juncture to agitate the question. He said:

"We were glad during the dark days of the civil war that no foreign government intervened. We were threatened time and again with intervention from Germany, France and England. We should do everything we can to avoid war and give Mexico the same chance we asked."

Administration officials today were inclined to believe that the negotiations between Lind and Huerta had almost reached a deadlock. It is understood that Lind's supplementary negotiations, while personally cordial, have availed nothing. Officials generally were not sanguine that Huerta would recede, and the disposition was to make public the attitude of the United States as expressed in its note.

President Wilson's disposition is said to be to make known to congress exactly what has been attempted through Lind's mission, proclaim the aims of the administration and let things in Mexico take their course, leaving drastic measures to be considered only when American lives are in danger.

How Manufacturing Co-operation Benefits the Public

HERE is an interesting example of how honest, intelligent co-operation benefits the buying public. Here is a company whose methods and success are a valuable lesson to the business men of the world—showing them how a large number of retail merchants in a particular class by joining forces, have secured advantages for themselves and their customers impossible to get in any other way.

Eleven years ago forty retail druggists organized what is today known as The United Drug Company. It now comprises more than 7,000 leading retail druggists in each important city and town in the United States, Canada and Great Britain, each a part owner of this great enterprise.

Our big laboratories in Boston and Toronto, where Rexall Toilet Articles are made; our immense candy factories in Boston and Baltimore; our perfume manufacturing plant in Boston, by many said to be the finest in the world; our fruit juice and fountain supply factory in Boston; our soap factory in Paris, France; and our various other manufacturing and distributing plants in Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, Liverpool, Eng., and other cities—occupy a total of more than a million square feet, or 23 acres of floor space. In addition to the above we control the entire output of great stationery mills and brush and rubber goods factories.

More than four-fifths of the output of The United Drug Company is of such lines of merchandise—toilet goods, candy, stationery, brushes, rubber goods, etc.—as formerly were carried, if at all, by druggists only as "side lines."

Thus, through co-operation in manufacturing and distribution, the Rexall Stores are now able to specialize in other merchandise than drugs and medicines. They have become department stores, in which all departments have equal advantages in variety, high quality and low prices.

Because they are both manufacturers and retailers, The Rexall Stores occupy a most favorable position, for they can, and do, sell all these big lines at lowest prices consistent with high quality, and in every instance with a personal guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

The above facts should convince you of the advantages of trading at The Rexall Stores. Some of these advantages have to do with the following lines of merchandise, all of which you can get only at The Rexall Store in your town:

Rexall Toilet Goods. Including shaving requisites, tooth preparations, toilet creams, soaps and many other toilet necessities, each fresh, pure and beneficial.

Violet Dulce Perfumes and Toilet Preparations. An exquisitely scented, beautifully-packaged line, comprising extract, toilet water, talcum complexion powders, complexion creams and other dainty toilet accessories.

Maximum Rubber Goods. "Maximum" in name, because of Maximum quality, Maximum durability, Maximum good looks, with Maximum two-year guarantee.

Symphony Lawn and Illuminated Crest Stationery. Two fashionable lines that in every way indicate the good taste of the user.

Boquet Jeantice Perfumes and Toilet Articles. For those who desire one individual and aristocratic fragrance in all their toilet articles.

Liggett's Chocolates. Pure, fresh and wholesome. The triumph of the confectioners' highest art.

"White Cross" Kleenex and Marguerite Tooth Brushes. Especially imported goods that outwear many other kinds that cost more.

State Treasurer Bob Dunlop is the latest to fling his headgear into the gubernatorial ring. Verily, some lively times are in prospect next year.

Our Oklahoma exchanges one and all tell of the arrival of the first bale or two of cotton during the past week. The town that has not yet received its first bale is indeed a dead one.

It is said that 250,000 volunteers answered the call for the Governor of Missouri for a day on the public roads of the state. The governor himself set the example by donning overalls and doing his share of it. It is estimated that over $1,000,000 worth of work was done on that eventful day.

With new oil strikes and another railroad Ardmore seems to be taking on new life. With its advantage of location there is no reason why Ardmore should not grow into one of the big cities in the state within a few years, especially if the oil field proves up to the expectations of the operators.

Citizens of Ada will in a few days be given an opportunity to sign Ben Riley's petition to refer the six sections of the election law which puts him out of office. As the law was supported by Democrats and Republicans alike it is evidently about as fair as is possible to make one, and the people should go slow about signing a petition that has no other purpose than perpetuating Ben Riley in office. The interests of the entire state should be considered above those of any one man.

A FEW WORDS ON PROSPERITY.

Weather reports of the past week show conditions in Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and adjoining section as being the worst in many years. In some sections all records are broken and the country is confronted with a condition bordering upon famine. By comparison Oklahoma is in fine condition. While the state as a whole will this year probably make better than an average crop, some sections are far above the average and some will fall below. We have reason to be thankful.

But the point I want to make here is this: Oklahoma will have no prosperity to throw at the birds this year. We have no superabundance to share with the horde of peddlers who will swarm down upon us from the northern states to absorb what prosperity we have. Business in those states will be dull. They will do their best to take business away from us in Oklahoma—more strenuously than they have in the past.

Oklahoma can go through this present season in excellent shape if we practice conservation. Conservation means that we shall carefully guard our resources and allow none of our actual substance to slip away from us. Now and then you will be tempted to send an order out of the state instead of leaving it at home. Some superficial inducement will be offered to you by the out-of-state peddler. Consider it very carefully. Remember—

The dollar that you send out of the state for the things that you can get within the state is sent entirely beyond your sphere or business where you lose all touch with it. It is a drop of the life blood of business that you are dependent upon. You are robbing yourself of all future connection with that dollar. Leave that dollar in your own business sphere and you still have it working for you and for all your neighbors. Directly it comes back to you.

Oklahoma has it within her power to overcome all temporary handicaps of weather conditions. We have merely to conserve our resources. Spend our money with the home producer instead of with the outside producer. Keep the pay rolls at home.

There is the real point of the whole matter—keep the pay rolls at home. If a man comes in to sell you anything ask him the pointed question: "Where is the pay roll that produces what you have to sell?" Make him answer you clearly.

Ask the peddler: "Where is your pay roll?"

THAW HEARING

NEXT WEDNESDAY

Sherbrooke, Que., Aug. 21.—Until Wednesday of next week, barring unforeseen developments, Harry Kendall Thaw will remain in the Sherbrooke jail. On that day he is to be arraigned in the superior court on a writ of habeas corpus. Between now and that time his battery of Canadian lawyers hope to perfect plans, not to thwart deportation, but to submit to it gracefully—to a point selected by Thaw.

This in brief, was the satus Thursday night of Matteawan's fugitive arrested Tuesday near Coaticook, Que., and committed to jail here on a defective warrant. Ignorant of the moves made by his lawyers, Thaw has spent his time pacing the length of the narrow corridor in the Sherbrooke jail and was not even aware that the writ of habeas corpus case was served on the jailer this afternoon and but for a timely telephone message he would have been produced in court Thursday with the bench vacant.

This incident variously described as a blunder, a case of absent-mindedness and an error but to hurry arose after Superior Judge Globensky failed to specify in writing that the writ was returnable before him next Wednesday. He had set this date in chambers but the writ reading "instantly" when served on the jailer, set that official into instant action and he had called a carriage and ordered Thaw to dress for an outing when a telephone message from the judge informed him that the latter was leaving for Montreal not to return here as a circuit judge until next week.

Meanwhile District Attorney Conger of Duchesne county, New York, Deputy Franklin Kennedy of Albany, and others primarily interested in getting Stanford White slayer across the border seized on the possibility of Thaw's immediate production and sought to find another judge before whom to arraign him. But Mr. La Force, governor of the jail, declined to surrender Thaw until he had consulted Sheriff Akmer.

The sheriff after reading the writ carefully said that while no time for its return was stated, he had understood from the court that Wednesday was the day and he "allowed" that Thaw had better stay in jail.

BOOK COMPANIES MAY FILE INJUNCTION SUITS

Oklahoma City, Ok., Aug. 21.—The textbook controversy was given an additional complication today when injunction suits were filed in the Oklahoma County District Court by Attorneys Asp, Snyder, Owen and Lybrand, representing three book companies, to prevent distribution and sale of a portion of those text books of the 1908 adoption which are in conflict with the adoption of 1912.

In each instance the Oklahoma Book Company of Oklahoma City, distributing agent for all textbook companies, is made party defendant and the injunctions, if granted, would, the attorneys say, extend to the distributing companies' agents throughout the state. Such an order would stop the sale of the controverted books until the status of the 1912 adoption is fixed in court.

The suits filed were Allyn & Bacon against the distributing company and the American Book Company and Ginn & Co., the books involved being algebra and Latin grammars; Scott, Foresman & Co., against the distributing company, D. C. Heath & Co. and Rand-McNally & Co., the books in question being readers, and Scribner Sons against the distributing company and D. C. Heath & Co., the books being histories.

The petitions recite the history of the 1912 adoption, which is relied upon as having been legally made; that contracts were entered into predicated upon the board's action during July, one year ago, and that the contracts were approved by J. J. McAlester, as Acting Governor, on the night of Aug. 2. It is also contended that since the defendant book companies have no legal adoption, but are endeavoring to usurp the value of the 1912 adoption, the amount of damages can not be estimated, therefore they should be enjoined. The remedy is also asked, the petitions say, the prevent a multiplicity of suits. The only new issue in the controversy that these suits bring forward is the approval of the contracts by the acting governor, and furnishes a possibility of ruling on that point by the appeal court.

Owing to the bewildering legal opinions touching the situation County Boards of Education have been forced to determine for themselves with which set of books they would open the schools. The Oklahoma Book Company distributing agent, is supplied with materials of both adoptions and has been making shipments to local dealers as rapidly as county boards reach a decision.

The distributing company accepts no responsibility in the matter. Up to date more counties have ordered the 1908 books than have those of the 1912 adoption, notwithstanding State Superintendent Wilson has contended in published statements that nothing but 1912 adoption could be legally used.

Members of the present state board of education other than the state superintendent adopted a resolution last week advising that the 1908 books with the exception of spellers be used until the supreme court passes upon the Wheeler & Co. suit, which is now on appeal. It is understood that the board's action hurried the injunction suits, which had already been in contemplation.

NEGROES PREPARING TO GO TO WESTERN AFRICA

A band of ten or twelve families of negroes who live southeast of Okemah and south of Clearview, are making their plans to leave Okfuskee county and locate in Western Africa some time this coming winter. Clay Anderson, a well-to-do negro of the community and a negro or two of Weleetka and vicinity are at the head of the movement and they have been in communication with negroes over in Africa for the past two years.

This band of negroes have a peculiar brand of religion and are known as Godites, and think that they should obey no laws but the divine law as they interpret it, and consequently some of them are in jail occasionally. This religious sect first attracted attention a short time after statehood when a number of them refused to work the roads, and were fined by a justice of the peace and then put on the road gang. There has been no trouble with them since about working the roads, but a few days ago two of them were arrested on charges of getting married without a license and are in the county jail awaiting trial. And that seems to be the straw that broke the camel's back or at least set their determination of leaving this country and establishing a colony in Africa, where they can set up what ever laws they desire.

While E. P. Fears was out in that section buying cattle Monday he ran onto the colony and purchased their

"A Hero Among Men"

TWO PARTS

This is undoubtedly one of the most powerful dramas ever produced, being the story of a strike in a dynamite plant. Over five hundred men were employed in the strike scenes, which depicted the savage passions of men who felt that they were not treated fairly. Fire and explosions, however, turned the tide of battle, lives had to be saved and heroism took the place of madness and viciousness. Men who would kill were turned into men who would save and demonstrated that one touch of nature "makes all men kin."

PAYING FINES TO DODGE ROAD WORK

The sheriff's office informs the News that since the road working began there has been a scramble among county prisoners to pay up their fines instead of laying them out in jail. Altogether some $375 has been paid in that would otherwise have probably been spent in jail. This serves to save the county some little expense in feeding them.

Until the 28th new members will be admitted without payment of the usual initiation fee, and all business men who have any idea of becoming members will have but a short time to line up if they wish to save this fee. While the object of the organization embraces everything that is to the interest of the business men, an important feature will be to spot dead beats and supply the members with full information concerning the responsibility of their prospective customers. Also, the organization will look carefully after collections for its members.

A Germ Exterminator.

Miracles are taking place each day in Oklahoma, the land and home of the Red Man, owing to the fact that three new herbs have been discovered scientifically compounded, and used in a common sense way. Demonstrations are now being conducted in the larger cities of Oklahoma and in a short time will be handled in all important cities of the land. No product of nature has ever sprung into such tremendous popularity in so brief a time. Numerous inquiries are pouring in regarding this new wonder. They come from people who have despaired of all earthly help. It is per forming modern day miracles for the sick. It is banishing disease conditions where every other known remedy has failed. Antagonistic to all disease conditions, it attacks weakened important diseased tissues throughout the body. It instills a flow of vital force which sweeps away stomach troubles, and ailments of the liver, kidneys, bowels and blood, no matter of how long standing. It will be found most effective and not harmful and soothing to the most delicate invalids. It destroys germs of consumption, hay fever, asthma, catarrh and sore throat. In one case of tubercular laryngitis it restored the voice after ten years of affliction. All inquiries will be gladly and promptly answered.

SUPPOSED MURDERED MAN RETURNS TO ARDMORE

Ardmore, Ok., Aug. 22—A strange case was brought to light yesterday, a story wherein an innocent man came very near paying a severe penalty for the mysterious disappearance of another who was believed to have been murdered and his body disposed of in this city 17 years ago.

Seventeen years ago John Gernand was arrested, tried before Judge Bradford and placed in the federal jail here charged with the murder of Tom McGinnis. The circumstances surrounding Gernand were purely circumstantial but were believed to be sufficiently strong to convict him. It was charged against him that he had murdered McGinnis and thrown his body in a well in the northeast part of the city near the brick yard. Bad blood had existed between them, and Gernand was heard upon several occasions to make threats, but nothing certain was known as to his direct connection with the disappearance of

NEGRO PRISONER INSISTS ON WATERMELONS AND CAKES

The negro who came so near killing himself about a week ago by jumping from an upper window in the sheriff's office, has about recovered, but refuses to eat anything but watermelons and cakes. Tom Rye, the kind hearted jailor, cooked him up a fine dinner of steak, creamed potatoes and other delicacies, but the dusky prisoner informed him that he wanted none of it; that he wanted his melon and cakes.

A studio is being fitted up at the normal where pupils will be taken in piano and voice every day in the week for the coming year. In the meantime the auditorium is being used for the purpose. Pupils in both the normal department and training school, will be taken at their vacant periods from 9 a. m. until 3:30 p. m. Pupils in the public schools may get work before and after the normal period and on Saturdays.

Indications are that I will not be able to accommodate all who apply, so an early enrollment is desired.

Any erroneous reflection on the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of The News will be gladly corrected upon its being brought to the attention of the management.

For seeming comfort give us one of these Bulgarian blouses which are no being worn by the ladies. They are not much of an artistic triumph but they certainly look comfortable. They fit about like a barrel but they are made of opaque material which permits the wearer to wear or not wear anything under them she desires and the roominess gives enough latitude and longitude to take a bath without inconvenience. They look so comfortable that a man with his binding belt and tight stiff collar gets envious.—Pine Bluff Commercial.

Begins to look like the voters of Arkansas will be forced to choose their next governor from the Republican, Bull Moose or Socialist ranks. The Democrats have muddled things so that the board has been finally enjoined from placing on the ticket the name of Judge Hays, who on the face of the returns won the nomination. Unless the supreme court takes quick action no Democrat's name will appear and the election is to take place July 23.

The boosting spirit seems to have extended even to far away Alaska. The News is in receipt of a large booklet setting forth the advantages of that region in true western style. In the first place a comparison of areas is shown on a map from which it appears that Alaska is far from being a speck on the map. It is about twice the size of Texas and the distance from the extreme eastern tip to the most western island is about the same as across the United States east and west. The illustrations in the booklet do not bear out the current idea that Alaska is a vast frozen expanse. Some fine farms are shown where prosperity seems to abound. The forests, fisheries and minerals also come in for considerable attention. All the Alaskans ask for is to be turned loose and allowed to develop some of the marvelous resources of that section. With railroads building into the interior and the vast store houses of nature tapped, a harvest of wealth will flow from the region that was once considered worthless.

"We have been hesitating as to what position to take in regard to the amendment of article 9, section 9, but we have arrived at a conclusion. We believe the people ought to vote for this amendment. It was feared that the railroads were back of this movement but it now turns out that the reverse is the case. The big trunk lines, with the possible exception of the Santa Fe, do not want the constitution changed. They are getting all the railway business there is under present conditions and are satisfied to let present conditions continue indefinitely. If more railroads are built, that will divide their business. It is only the small lines, like the Oklahoma Central and the Wichita Falls roads that need this amendment.

"The fact that the big roads are opposed to this proposed amendment is proven by the fact that they were unwilling to grant a Gettysburg rate even when told that if they refused it would probably mean the defeat of article 9, section 9. They stood pat and declined to give old soldiers any relief. This, to our mind, proves that the trunk lines are not only not in favor of the repeal of article 9, section 9, but that they are, in all probability, actually opposed to it.

"The solitary exception is the Santa Fe. This road has a surplus of many millions. It is well entrenched financially and otherwise. Its legal counsel, Bledsoe and Cottingham, are old residents of this state and they have shown often that they are disposed to treat the state fairly. It was they who took the lead on the part of the railroads in reducing the railway fare to two cents a mile and their names are signed to the West stipulation.

"So, August 5, we trust our people—the best on earth—will vote to repeal this provision of the constitution so we can build some more railroads in this state."—Vinita Leader.

DISTRICT COURT BEGINS GRIND

J. C. JACKSON, CHARGED WITH KILLING JOHN PIRTLE, FIRST ON TRIAL.

The regular term of district court convened this morning with Judge McKeown on the bench. The first case called was that of J. C. Jackson of Hart, charged with killing his stepson, John Pirtle about two years ago. Over 100 witnesses were summoned and the fight promises to be a hard one. The empanelling of the jury will probably be completed late this afternoon and the taking of evidence to follow Tuesday.

Pirtle, a youth of 19 or 20, was found dead in the brush a short distance from his home. He had been shot through the head with a revolver and a weapon was found near the corpse. It was thought to be a case of suicide at the time and it was not until the last grand jury had investigated the case that a complaint was filed against Jackson.

The county attorney is being assisted by Attorneys Ben Williams of Norman, Tom Farris and Joe A. Edwards of Stratford.

CITY WILL APPEAL ADAMS CASE

City Attorney J. E. Webb informs the News that he has taken an appeal to the county court in the suit of J. Q. Adams against the city for the return of $8.50 fee paid for tapping the water mains at his place. He asserts that the question involved the constitutionality of a city ordinance and that a justice of the peace has no jurisdiction in such cases. Furthermore, the law passed by the special session of the legislature forbidding appeals in cases where the amount involved is less than $20 will not take effect until ninety days after the adjournment of the special session Saturday. He is confident of winning the suit in the county court.

RURAL ROUTE WILL BE ESTABLISHED

Postmaster Winn informs the News that the patrons along the rural route surveyed out sometime ago have met all the conditions of the postoffice department except the building of a bridge near Ben Hampton's place. That being a county bridge nothing could be done until until another year's levy had been made. When that is done Commissioner Montgomery has promised that the bridge shall be speedily built. This will be a very important route and will serve about 300 families.

NAMES WELL KNOWN TO HIM

"Earthquake Babies" of San Francisco Had Cognomens With Which Mr. Hearst Was Familiar.

William Randolph Hearst decided immediately after the famous earthquake and fire in San Francisco that one of his missions should be the care of the "earthquake babies," as the youngsters born during the excitement were called. Many of the mothers died or were lost in the falling buildings, and the Hearst relief committee was compelled to give the kids names as well as care.

The newspaper men close to Hearst exhausted all the Bethas, Johns, Williams and Graces and then began naming the babies after distinguished Hearst writers of both sexes. There were many named Arthur Brisbane, Homer Davenport, Dorothy Dix, S. S. Chamberlain, John Temple Graves, and so on down the line.

One evening Mr. Hearst sauntered into the offices of his relief committee, and a proud manager showed him the list of babies that had been saved and helped. The big publisher looked the list over once or twice in a rather puzzled manner. Then, with a twinkle in his eye, he looked up and asked:

"What is this, anyway, the pay roll?"—The Popular Magazine.

TWO VALUES TO CERTIFICATE

Obtained From Teacher to Secure Position as Caddy, It Also Serves as Business Recommendation.

The certificate of character that wins a boy a position on the golf links very often serves a double purpose. When the life of a caddy palis that same certificate is found useful in securing an office position. Some employers do not know what to make of that unusual recommendation.

"What's this?" said one man suspiciously to the boy who had applied for a situation. "It doesn't say a word about your writing or spelling or industry; it just states that you can be relied upon as a faithful caddy. What has that got to do with holding a steady job?"

"A whole lot," said the boy. "My teacher signed that. Most of the chaps up at the links have certificates of character from their teachers. If a fellow can be depended upon upon there, why can't he be depended upon down here?"

That was an argument that fetched that particular employer and it has fetched many another man to whom similar references have been presented.

George Meredith's Faith.
The English dramatist, Alfred Sutro, visited New York recently, and in speaking of the late George Meredith, with whom he was closely acquainted, said:

"One incident of George Meredith's life has always impressed me. He was about to undergo an operation, and had been told by his physician that the danger was considerable. He said nothing about it, however. The night before he was to go under the knife, he invited several of his dearest friends to dine with him. It was one of the jolliest little dinners of his life. The next day he was operated upon, and he came through it safely. After it was all over, he was asked if he were not afraid.

"No," he replied, 'I have the greatest faith in the kindness of nature. I felt that, whatever happened to this battered old cage of mine, that the little bird fluttering inside it would come to no harm.'—Youth's Companion.

Cholera and Tobacco.
For a long time it has been noted that smokers are relatively immune to certain epidemic sicknesses, especially cholera. Dr. Wenck, professor of the Imperial Institute of Berlin, has found that by manipulating cigars in water containing 1,500,000 cholera bacilli per cubic centimeter of twenty-four hours. The same doctor has proved that tobacco smoke rapidly kills the cholera germ. In a tobacco factory in Hamburg not a single case of cholera was found among the workers during the last great epidemic, though they lived in districts most affected by the plague.—Harper's Weekly.

Old London Parks.
London's parks in the old days were great places for sport, although even then the spectacle of a naked runner was—well, unusual. Coach and foot races were comparatively common, and in 1654 Cromwell himself was present in Hyde Park at "a hurling of a great ball by fifty Cornish gentlemen of one side and fifty on the other," the silver ball played with being the prize for the victors. And Cromwell himself tried his hand at coaching in the park with disastrous results, for the horses ran away and my lord protector was pitched into the roadway, narrowly escaping serious hurt from his pistol, which went off in his pocket.

Cement and Sentiment.
A home-builder in California hit upon a charming idea when he caused his little son to make the impression of his hands in the wet cement of the walk before his door. Although the imprint was made in 1887, the outlines of the little hands are perfectly clear, and will remain as a dainty souvenir of the boy's play days. It is just such touches of sentiment as this, says the Strand Magazine, that make the difference between a house and a home.

Geo. Zephulo, the wonderful mind reader and hypnotist who will appear at the Airdome this evening, gave an exhibition of his powers this afternoon. A party drove a nail into the wall of the postoffice. It was then removed and different persons took hammer and nail and hid them in places about town.

Artificial Sapphires.
The chemical composition of the synthetic sapphire is the same as that of the natural sapphires. The only difference is that the real sapphire is crystallized, while the artificial sapphire is fused alumina or alumina glass. Between artificial and real sapphires there is just such a difference as there is between potato sugar and rock candy.—Harper's Weekly.

Her Faith Lost.
A little Boston girl was coaxed to own to her aunt that she had done something which she ought not, and which she stoutly denied. Finally, such undeniable proof of her guilt was put up before her that she could no longer keep her denial. She turned to her aunt, and said: "Well, Aunt Kittle, you can't trust anybody, nowadays!"

Siberian Land Threatened.
Extensive tracts of land in Siberia are threatened by the encroachment of the great Gobi desert, and a plan has now been drawn up for a series of forest ramparts to hold back the salt and drift. The only effective defense, according to the report of agronomists sent to survey the region is in tree belts at least two miles broad. It is proposed to plant one of these from Samara to the Caspian sea, while others are recommended extending in intervals of about 40 miles right up to the Chinese frontier.

A Creation.
When a woman puts powder on her face it is assumed she is endeavoring to improve her complexion and to fool the men folks in regard to it. But when she is married and her husband has to buy the powder, it is not impertinent, we think, to ask who the heck is she trying to deceive now?—Concordia Kansan.

Always Fairy Tales.
There has never been a language spoken that has not been used for telling fairy tales. Whether in hot lands or cold, among savages or the most cultivated nations—why, not a moment passes in which some one, somewhere, is not telling a fairy tale, or listening to one, or reading one, or perhaps writing a new one. Which makes it delightfully probable that we shall always have them with us, however scarce the fairies may have made themselves in these prosaic and practical days.—St. Nicholas.

Unlucky Seized by Octopus.
A naval diver at Toulon was suddenly attacked by a giant octopus while under water in the harbor. He gave the hoisting signal and was hauled to the surface, together with the octopus, whose tentacles, said to be 25 feet long, were wrapped around him. The diver was unconscious. The octopus held fast to the diver until it was stabbed to death. It weighed 135 pounds, and the suckers on its tentacles were as big as half-dollar pieces.—London Mail.

"Home, Sweet Home."
The original manuscript of "Home, Sweet Home" is said to have been buried in the grave with Miss Harry Harden of Athens, Ga. She was John Howard Payne's sweetheart, but refused to marry him in deference to her father's wishes. After she was separated from her lover she shut herself in the old family mansion, seeing none but a few members of the little church to which she belonged.—Independent.

Once Exclusive Pet of Royalty.
The Pekingese spaniel, or "lion dog," now so popular among dog lovers, was formerly an exclusive possession of China's rulers, and it was a capital offense to remove one of the diminutive creatures from the imperial palace. A pair of them were brought to Europe after the capture of Peking in 1860, and from these and a few others the American specimens of the breed are descended.

What Sterne Said.
Sterne once said that the most accomplished way of using books is to serve them as some do lords; learn their titles and then brag of their acquaintance.

Packing Food in Ferns.
In Germany the use of ferns is coming into more and more favor for packing food which is transported either short or long distances. The practice became common in England before it gained equal vogue in Germany, and the results are said to be excellent, especially in shipping fresh fruit, butter, fish and other food products which require unusual care.

CHAPTER XIV.

An Odd Alliance.

The sound of a step in the hall outside brought Grace to the door. She opened it stealthily, as though bent on some mission of dire peril. And, as stealthily, Wanda slipped into the room, closing the door behind her. The two women faced each other in silence. It was Grace who spoke first. "I-I sent for you, Miss Kelly," she began uncertainly, "because—because—oh, I'm hemmed in everywhere! I don't know which way to turn!" "I see," said Wanda quietly. "Standish is going to throw you over to save himself? I was afraid so."

"I-I said some cruel—abominable things to you a little while ago, Miss Kelly," stammered Grace. "Won't you forgive me? You see, I was fighting for my very life. I'm sorry."

"I'm sorry I was cranky," said Wanda impulsively, "and I guess I understand all about it. I thought first that Fate had let me in on this so that I could show you up. But I think now it was so I could be of some use to you. You see, there's only we two women. And we've got to fight that whole crowd."

"You'll help? You'll stand by me?" "That's what I've been trying to tell you, Mrs. Robertson. You've paid for all you did. And I don't want you to pay any more. You're a ten times better woman this minute than a lot who have the law on their side. So forget all that and let's see what we can do."

Grace, to Wanda's dismay, broke down and sobbed in hopeless wretchedness.

"Don't! Don't!" pleaded the girl. "We'll—oh, dear!" a sob choking her. "Now you've got me going! We must brace up and do something. There's plenty of spare hours for crying. But this isn't one of them. We've a bunch of trouble ahead of us. But we're going to win out. So let's get busy."

"By this time, most likely, they've applied to central for all the numbers called up from this hotel since seven o'clock tonight. We have to turn in our calls to central, you know. And one of those numbers will be the one they want. But it'll be hard for them to find which one. Yours would be the very one they wouldn't think of."

"Can't we stop them from getting the list?"

"No. Their pull is too strong. But it'll take time to run all the numbers down. And time's the one thing they haven't got. Time! That's our one card. They want to use this story tonight. If we can keep them from doing that—"

"If worst comes to worst," exclaimed Grace, "I can go to my father and tell him. He loves me enough to keep it from every one. Even from Mark. It'll break his heart. But it will stop the story."

"No," decided Wanda, after a moment's thought, "it's too late for that. The thing's gone too far. Van Dyke and your husband and the rest are as keen for the name as he is. If he pretended to weaken or tried to stop them now, they'd push on in spite of him."

"Then we've got to work alone. We've got to keep them from finding out. We've got to! We've got to!" "I'd give seven dollars to know what they're doing now," mused Wanda. "It's tough to work in the dark like this."

"Suppose," suggested Grace, in sudden dread, "suppose they try to force you to tell? They're clever—and they're merciless. And—"

"They'll have a sweet time. I'd like a colored photograph of the bunch of men who can make me talk if I don't want to. No, no! Don't you worry about that, Mrs. Robertson."

"It wouldn't be as easy as you think, I'm afraid. They are so determined—"

"Yes, I suppose it would be liable to spoil the evening for them and make them real peevish. But it would take up a lot of time they haven't got."

"You won't let them break you down? Oh, I've no right to allow you to endanger your welfare for me! When they find you won't tell, they may—"

"Don't let that keep you awake, Mrs. Robertson. I know I'm taking chances in bucking the machine. Lord knows what they'll do to me. But it's worth the risk. And I'm going to stand by you till the cows come home. We—"

A rattling, as some one in the hall tried the outer door of the suite, brought both women to their feet in wordless fear. Then Mark Robertson's voice reached them.

"Grace!" called Robertson from the hall. "Are you asleep? The door's locked."

"This way," whispered Grace, pointing to the inner rooms of the suite. "Go down the passage. There's another door at the end of it, leading out into the hall."

"All right," whispered Wanda in reply. "Good luck to you. Keep your nerve. That's the main thing. Just keep your nerve."

"Grace!" called Mark impatiently. Grace crossed to the locked door, paused a moment until she heard the door at the far end of the suite open and close, then unlocked the outer door.

"Did you fall asleep?" asked Mark, as he came in. "How did the door happen to be locked?"

"I didn't know I'd locked it," replied Grace. "It was careless of me. It seems I'm fixed this evening to keep you waiting. First at the station. Then—"

"It's queer," interrupted Mark. "I could have sworn I heard a woman's voice—not yours—talking in here, just as I tried the door. Probably it was in the next suite."

"Probably. I'm all alone. And I'm not given to soliloquy. How is the fight going?"

"Badly. But we'll win. We're delaying until we can get certain material we need."

"When do you expect the others?" "They'll be here in a minute. I came on ahead. I'm a fool, I suppose. But whenever you're in Washington, every minute I'm not with you seems time lost. So I made some sort of an excuse and hurried on. Why, he asked in sudden alarm, "what's the matter?"

"And you'll stoop to use such a weapon as that?" she cried indignantly.

"Why not? He'd use the same sort of weapon against us, fast enough; if he had it."

"But that isn't fair fighting, Mark. It's disgusting scandal."

"That's his lookout, not ours. If he chanced to know something damaging in my private life, he'd use it in a minute."

"But if I asked you—if I begged you—"

"Don't ask me, dear. This is one of the things you don't understand. You'll have to leave it to me."

"Perhaps," she retorted desperately, "I may understand it far better than you do. You say there's a woman concerned in it. This scandal will pillory her and—"

"That type of woman belongs in the pillory."

"You are cruel!" she cried. "You yourself admit that there is a chance the Woman may have repented. Are you going to refuse her the benefit of that chance?"

"The chance is too small to be con-

CHAPTER XV.

A Wasted Plea.

Grace started guiltily at her husband's troubled question. He took her face between his hands and raised it to the light.

"You're ill!" he exclaimed in quick dread. "You look actually ghastly. Shall I send for a doctor?"

"What nonsense!" she laughed. "I'm all right. Just a little tired. A good night's sleep will put me on my feet again."

"I've buried myself so deep in politics," he frowned self-accusingly, "that I hadn't sense enough to remember that you might be worn out and might want to go to bed. But I didn't notice that you looked badly at the station. It wasn't till just now when the light happened to strike your face—Oh, but I'm glad to see you here again, sweet-heart!"

"Really?" she asked almost timidly; drinking in her husband's words as a condemned man might gaze on his last sunset.

"Glad?" he cried. "Indeed I am. I'm afraid I'll never get past the honeymoon stage. You don't want me to, do you?"

"I wonder," she faltered, "—if you'd never met me—if you'd—"

"I'd never have known what I missed. That's where nature is kind. People who miss the real love never know. We only know when we've found it."

"But," she pursued, "when people find out too late—afterward—That's the bitterest thing in life, I should think. It isn't easy to judge people—women, especially—who find out too late—and who try then to get their birthright of happiness in spite of everything."

"Such people have lost their birthright," he answered. "They've sold it for a mess of pottage. That's one of the problems of the ages, Grace."

"I'm afraid," she said, "that I'm a little late for that. I should think it isn't easy to judge people—women, especially—who find out too late—and who try then to get their birthright of happiness in spite of everything."

sidered. Don't let's talk of it. You can't—"

"Then," she continued, unheeding. "There's something else you don't consider. Se may have married. She may be the wife of some honorable man who loves her and thinks she is perfect. All his heart and all his ideals may be bound up in her. Are you going to ruin his life, too?"

"Dear," sneered Mark, "the sort of fool who marries women of that kind (like the man who teaches his wife to be a 'dead game sport') deserves what he gets. And generally he gets it. Though, in both cases, he doesn't always find it out. Don't waste sympathy on him. If he married her he probably knew what she was. If he didn't know, it's time he learned. No sane man should want to live in a fool's paradise."

"But her family! Her parents? Her brothers or sisters? Surely they aren't to blame. And they will be disgraced, too."

"Such things are rather apt to run in families. Cankered flowers don't grow from clean roots. You're wanting a lot of sympathy over a woman and a man who are unworthy to speak your dear name. There are your father and the rest, getting out of the elevator now. Go to bed, dear girl, and try to get a good rest. Don't sit up for me. I'll probably be up all night on this Standish affair. Good night, sweetheart."

As he bent to kiss her, her arms clung to his neck like a frightened child's. She tried to speak, faltered, and hurried from the room.

WILL SHIP GLASS

SAND FROM ROFF

A Oklahoma City company has secured a large tract of land near Roff underlaid with a high grade of glass sand and will ship the sand to various glass factories of the state. It is expected that a fair sized pay roll will be turned loose at Roff as a result. It is probable that within another year sufficient gas will be struck in Pontotoc county to enable a glass factory to be located closer to the sand than at present.

Another Daily Paper for Ardmore.

Shawnee, Okla., Aug. 2.—L. S. Allard, formerly proprietor of the News-Herald, but who sold the paper to Otis Weaver, has decided to establish a new morning paper in Ardmore, and will begin publication about September 1. Allard some time ago purchased the plant used in the publication of the old Ardmore Democrat but decided to wait before starting the paper. For some time he considered bringing the plant to Shawnee and starting a new paper here.

COLE YOUNGER JOINS CHURCH

Lees Summit, Mo., Aug. 22—Cole Younger, the former bandit became a member of a Christian church at a revival meeting here tonight.

When the evangelist after finishing his sermon invited persons in the audience to join the church, Younger was one of the first to go forward to the altar rail.

At the conclusion of the service the evangelist said those in the audience who cared to do so might remain and shake hands with Younger. There were a thousand persons present and all remained to congratulate the former member of the James gang on his conversion.

New Store for Wetumka

G. L. Carroll of Ada is making active preparations to open a general merchandise store here in the building formerly occupied by Joe Getz. He has had the room remodeled and shelved and hopes to have his stock in by September 1. Mr. Carroll is a man of push and energy, a substantial business man, who is coming to Wetumka to stay, and as such we extend him a hearty welcome and wish him the best of success.—Wetumka Enterprise.

SHERMAN SUFFERS

$30,000 FIRE LOSS

Sherman, Tex., Aug. 21.—An early morning fire today on North Travis street did damage reaching approximately $30,000. The building known as the Bray building, Nos. 203 and 205 North Travis street, belonging to W. C. Eubanks and valued at $24,000 was practically destroyed. Insurance to the amount of $18,000 was carried on the building.

The pool hall business of Waggoner & Gray occupied the north side of the building. The contents were entirely destroyed. The loss of this firm is estimated at $6,000, with $4,000 insurance.

The College cafe, owned by J. S. Stratis, occupied the south half of the building. Mr. Stratis occupied the rear of the building as a sleeping apartment, and a young man by the name of Herbert D. Anderson roomed with him. The contents of the cafe were a total loss, estimated at $3,500 only partly covered by insurance. Messrs. Stratis and Anderson lost all of their personal effects, getting out of the burning building only with the clothing they were able to grab up and put on as they escaped.

GOVERNOR WILL APPOINT NEW BOARD OF AGRICULTURE

Oklahoma City, Aug. 22.—Holding that the president of the board of agriculture, G. T. Bryan, could not be legislated out of office during a term for which he had been elected by the people, Attorney General West today rendered his opinion to Governor Cruce concerning the agricultural board amendment adopted in the recent election.

The governor may appoint the other four members of the board, according to the opinion of the attorney general. As Bryan was elected as president of the board, he must remain as such until his term of office expires.

Governor Cruce today stated that he would not appoint the other four members until some time next week, when it is expected that he will announce them all at the same time. The opinion of the attorney general

Men Welcome Mother's Friend

A Duty that Every Man Owes to Those who Perpetuate the Race.

It is just as important that men should know of progressive methods in advance of motherhood. The suffering, pain and distress incident to child-bearing can be easily avoided by having at hand a bottle of Mother's Friend.

This is a wonderful, penetrating, external application that relieves all tension upon the muscles and enables them to expand without the painful strain upon the ligaments. Thus there is avoided all those nerve spells; the tendency to nausea or morning sickness is counteracted, and a bright, sunny, happy disposition is preserved that reflects wonderfully upon the character and temperament of the little one soon to open its eyes in bewilderment at the joy of its arrival. You can obtain a bottle of "Mother's Friend" at any drug store at $1.00, and it will be the best dollar's worth you ever obtained. It preserves the mother's health, enables her to make a quick and complete recovery, and thus with renewed strength she will eagerly devote herself to the care and attention which mean so much to the welfare of the child. Write to the Bradfield Regulator Co., 129 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their valuable and instructive book of guidance for expectant mothers. Get a bottle of Mother's Friend to-day.
